Just ahead there was a turn in the track so sharp that after an obstruction upon it had come into the engineer's view no human power could have prevented an accident. Her name, she said, was Mrs. Emily Branson. From her house near the track she saw the wind hurl several huge trees across the rails. She was alone with her two little children, but she knew that the express was due and that the trees were on such a curve that they would be hidden from sight until it was too late.

A BRUTAL VENGEANCE.

A Dog Set Upon a Dector to Punish Him fer Alleged Impropriety.

Dr. Henry Fischer, a well-known physician. esiding at 2005 Menard street, is suffering from the effects of a terrible beating and bittram, a saloon-keeper, and Bertram's dog. The outrage was the result of an alleged insult offered Mrs. Bertram by Dr. Fischer. That lady states that she met the doctor at the house of a lady friend. Some conversation ensued and finally she left the room to get some beer. The doctor followed her into the kitchen, closed the door and then taking her in his arms kissed her on the lips and offered her further insults. The doctor denies this story, but there can be no doubt that Mrs. Bertram told her husband that Dr. Fischer had insulted her, and that he at once planned an almost diabolical vengeance. Bertram is a very heavy, powerful man, and keeps a very viclous dog. Waiting till night he took the dog to the doctor's residence and knocked. He got the window open by inventing a call from a patient, and in an instant the dog was set on the doctor. A terrible conflict ensued, in the course of which the doctor was horribly bitten and torn. Bertram struck and kicked his victim repeatedly, until the prostrate man lost consciousness and was apparently dead. Then the human brute called off the four-legred one and the two returned to the salcon. leged insult offered Mrs.

legred one and the two returned to the saloon.

The sessuit was very quietly conducted and none of the neighbors knew of it. It was some time before the doctor could get assistance, and when at last help came he was in a condition bordering on insanity and paralysis. His nose was broken in the struggle, and there are a number of horrible wounds to testify to the ferocity of the dog. At first life was despaired of, but the doctor's excellent constitution will probably pull him through. The first thing he will do on recovering will be to swear out a warrant against Bettram charging him with assault to kill.

There is little disagreement between the parties as to the assault, but while Dr. Fischer says there were four men with Bettram, the latter is positive he had no help beyond his sledge-hammer fist and his sharp-toothed dog.

Mrs. Bertram is very positive as to the insult offered her, but Dr. Fischer characterizes her story as an absurd fiction and adds that he can prove it to be so. German circles in South St. Louis are much excited over the sensational occurrences, and the outcome of the inevitable proceedings will be watched with great interest.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Aug. 2.—The campaign in this State has become more bitter and more personal every day. The meeting at Hampton Court-house, the home of State Senator Moore, whom Tillman has charged with perjury in voting in the Senate, yesterday, was one of personalities and interruptions instead of issues. Farmer Tillman was the speaker. The friends of Moore asked Tillman to name those he charged with perjury. He did so, and as soon as he had nettered the name "Moore," Mr. A. P. Youmans made his way to the front, and said in a ringing voice, with clenched fist and glowing eyes: "Capt. Tillman, you are a liar, a black liar. Prove it on him. We rammed the lie down your dirty throat at Ridgeway. You lied then, and you know it."

Others yelled out to Tillman that he was a liar. Then there was a rush for Youmans. His coat was caught. Men caught hold of each other and for a time trouble was imminent. Tillman's followers rushed him to the front and dared any one to touch him. Pandemonium reigned for some time. At last things quieted and the speeches were continued amid frequent interruptions.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 2.—Representa-tive Cummings of New York dealt Speaker seed the hardest blow yesterday that that gentleman has thus far received from a long suffering and indignant minority. The blow came in the form of a resolution of inquiry. It was aimed directly at the Speaker, and with ernel irony was so framed as to require its reference to the Committee on Rules, of which Mr. Reed is chairman. The resolution to be understood must be read in the light of the following facts: Away back in 1876 Congress passed an act preventing the employ nent of additional laborers at the navy yards election in the district wherein the yard was situated. The purpose of the law prevent the use of the yards for entions except in cases where the Secretary When the naval bill passed the House a few months ago it contained an appropriation for $50,000 for the reconstruction of two buildings destroyed by fire at the Kittery (Me.) Navy Yard in last January, besides the amount necessary for the completion of the gunnery ship Lancaster, for repairs upon the training ship Monongahela, and for other purposes at the same yards.

Saturday last the Daily Chronicle of Portsmouth, N. H., contained an advertisement signed by the Secretary of the Navy, calling for the immediate employment of a large force of men at the Kittery yard for the foregoing purpose. The Kittery yard, it should be exlained, is situated in Speaker Reed's con gressional district, and the manifest purpes of suddenly increasing the force by five or six terpretation when it is remembered that the autumn elections, so fraught with interest to Mr. Reed, occur in Maine about six weeks

Mr. Cummings' resolution, after reciting in Its preamble the facts above stated, conclud

'Resolved, That the Committee on Nava Affairs be instructed to inquire into the neces sity of increasing the force in the Kittery Navy Yard at this time; whether the bes the public service require interests of the public service require that the buildings destroyed by fire in Jannary last shall be reconstructed; whether the gunnery ship Lancaster should be completed and whether the contemplated employment of a large force at this time is not intended to affect the approaching Congressional election in the State rather than to subserve the public interests; that the said committee shail have the power to send for persons and papers and send a subcommittee to the yard, and that all the expenses shall be paid out of the contingent fund of the House."

It should be stated that when the appropriation for reconstructing the building was sunder consideration in the Senate it was strongly opposed by so prominent a Republican sa Mr. Allison of lowa, his argument being that the yard was useful only for the purpose of repairing wooden ships, a class of vessels now rapidly falling into disuse.

The interesting feature of Mr. Cummings' resolution is found in its reference to the Committee on Rules, of which Mr. Reed is Chairman. If he suppresses the resolution, thereby preventing the Committee on Navai Affairs from pursuing the investigation, he makes a virtual confession of the allegations contained by inference in the resolution. On the other hand if the Committee on Rules report favorably upon the resolution it will go to the Committee on Navai Affairs of which Mr. Beutelie of Maine. a personal friend of to the Committee on Naval Affairs of which Mr. Boutelle of Maine, a personal friend of the Speaker, is Chairman. It would not be an extraordinay thing for Mr. Boutelle to carry the resolution around in his pocket several weeks until the effect of the investigation, even if it were to be made, would be practically neutralized. The outcome of this

WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 2 .- The following official letter respecting the transfer of Capt. Ericeson's remains was forwarded to New York to-day:

NAVY DEPARTMENT, WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 2, 1890.

Bear Admirat D. L. Braine, United States Navy Commandant, Navy Yard, New York:

Commandant, Navy Yard, New York:

SIR—The Department has fixed the aftermoon of Saturday, the 23rd day of August, as the time for the embarkation of the remains of the late Capt. John Ericeson for transportation to his mative country, on board the United States Ship Baltimore, and it entrusts to you the direction of all the arrangements connected with the ceremony.

The department has assumed this duty in response to an intimation conveyed by the Minister of Foreign Affairs of Sweden and Norway, through the United States Minister at Stocknoim, to the Department of State, that it would be regarded by the Government and people of Sweden with peculiar satisfaction.

Apart from the desire thus expressed, it is in the highest degree appropriate that the United States, through its navy, should pay his final tribute to the memory of the great Swedish invontor. As the most famous representative of the Scandinavian race in America, his name stands for that of a kindred paople, who have given to this country a large and highly valued element among its adopted citizens.

Letters have also been sent to the executors of the deceased and to Rear Admiral John L. Worden, U. S. N., the voteran Captain of the Monitor, inviting them to take part in the ceremonies, and to accompany the remains to the Baltimore. It is the intention of the Secretary of the Navy to be present. By the publication of this letter the Department invites all associations composed of the friends, companions or former countrymen of Capt. Ericeson, to take part in the procession to the Battery and to report to you through their representatives for instructions as to their position in the line and other details of the ceremony. The flag officers who may be in New York will be directed to cooperate with and assist you in carrying out this programme, the details of which you are authorized to modify as circumstances may require, Yery respectfully.

Senator Blair's Resolution.

Washington, D. C., Aug. 2.—In the Senate to-day the resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Blair instructing the Committee on Rules to report (within four days) a rule for the incorporation of the previous question, or of some method for limiting and closing debate in the parliamentary procedure of the Senate The Bouse.

to-day the resolution offered yesterday by Mr. Blair instructing the Committee on Rules to report (within four days) a rule for the incorporation of the previous question, or of some method for limiting and closing debate in the parliamentary procedure of the Senate was taken up.

Mr. Blair said that Senators had spoken to him indicating their desire to be heard before action should be taken in the matter, and who were not ready to proceed this morning. But ne desired to say that he had offered the resolution not with special reference to any pending bill, but with a feeling that there was a necessity for the proposed change. The period has arrived he thought when, in the transaction of the country's business, the senate must have some way by which a larger number of important public measures could be decided. The difficulty histerto had been in the other House of Congress, but that difficulty had been (as all Senators knew) removed to some extent, so that action was obtained there more promptly than formerly. The Senate, which had been hitherto the more expeditious body in the transaction of business was now liable to be, and, in fact, was far behind, he meant far behind in its capacity to reach and decide whatever measure a majority was disposed to pass. As it now was the whole business of the country was at the mercy of one or two individuals who might be opposed to a measure. The majority was practically under the control of the minority. And, so now, without reference to any particular measure now pending, or that might be pending, he thought that the subject matter of his resolution should receive the early and earnest consideration of the Senate. He was not clear, but that it was imperatively necessary that the matter should be onsidered prior to any pending measure, even to the tariff bill; Nobody could complain that there had been a disposition to procrastinate or to obstruct the ordinary course of debate and decision on the tariff bill; yet, although the Senate had already spent ten days upon it, only time (six or seven weeks) consumed in the consideration of the education bill, and said that that time had not been wasted, as the result of the discussion of that bill had been its defeat—just as he hoped that the debate on the tariff bill would result in the defeat of

A Decision on the Homestead Law. WASHINGTON, D. C., Aug. 2 .- The some what interesting land case of George Stenger vs. H. W. Romines of the Ironton (Mo.) District was passed upon yesterday by Assistant Secretary Chandler of the Department of the Interior. Romines made a homestead entry on 160 acres of land near Ironton, Mo., in December, 1881, and submitted final proof in January, 1887. The land office at Ironton rejected the proof and stated that there was not sufficient evidence of a homestead on the land. It was shown that Romine did not move in on the land until the fall of 1883, two years after entry. Stenger wanted the land also. When the case was returned from the General Land Office, to which it had been appealed and from which court an order was issued to give Romine his final papers, Stenger appealed the case to the Pepartment of the Interior. In passing on the case Secretary Chandler says it is shown that Romine began improving his property from the day of entry and kept it up, though he did not move until 1883. He was a poor man and had to support a family on rented land adjoining, working only at odd moments on his homestead claim. Romine is, therefore, allowed to complete his proof and enter upon lowed to complete his proof and enter upon his homestead.

UNPARALLELED HISTORY. How the American People Pay Off Their

From the Boston Daily Adver iser. The statement of the debt extinguishment be impressive. It reflects not only the our people as no other statistical exhibit does. The mere fact is startling that twenty-five years ago, less than a generation, the public debt was $2,756,000,000, entailing an annual in-terest charge of $151,000,000, and it is now only $921,000,000, and the interest charge is but $22,500,000.

The face of the debt has decreased to one-third its maximum size, while the interest charge has decreased to one-fifth its highest amount, owing to refunding at the constantly amount, owing to refunding at the constantly decilning rates of interest.

In the past ten years a large proportion of the debt has been extinguished. At the time of the 1890 census the public debt was $1,919,000,000, and the interest charge was $79,000,000, so that in a decade the debt has been reduced $998,000,000 or say $1,000,000,000.

It will thus be seen that if the country remains prosperous and continues to be well governed it will be entirely possible to extinguish the entire remaining public debt in the next ten years, so that the people of the United States could, if they chose, enter upon the twentieth century with a net surplus in the treasury. It has been the historic fiscal policy of our country to pay off its debt; we presume it will continue to be.

The present census will show 65,000,000 people in the United States in all probability, and this will figure a debt at the present time of only $14 per inhabitant, which is small, while the interest charge of $29,417,603 entails a tax of less than 50 cents per year per inhabitans.
Our readers will see from this how slight a burden the National debt is in comparison with the real taxation of the people, which is local taxation, ranging all the way from $9 to $19 per 1,000. The problems which confront this generation of Americans are not those of poverty, certainly.

THE LAW UNCHANGED.

W. FAUNTLEROY EXPLAIS AN BRECK REGARDING CAPITAL CASES.

ases Where Death Is the Pupishment Cannot Reach the Highest Tribunal Any Easier Than Before-Wris of Error-A Peculiar Provision in a Will-Divorce Matters-Notes.

"I have heard some talk and see the papers calling attention to the discovery of an aleged new law, which wil a llow capital cases to get to the Supreme Court of the United States much easier than before?" remarked Mr. P. W. Fauntieroy, dissonssing capital punishment and legal technicalities to-day. "A morning paper in its issue of yesterday, under the heading of "An Important New Law" publishes a communication from its Washington correspondent, in which he makes the startling anouncement that under a recently discovered United States statute, any and all sapital cases, as well those tried in the State courts, as those tried in the Federal Courts, can be carried to the United States Supreme Court for review therein by writ of error. this the fact it would indeed be 'an important new law,' insemuch as such a statute would involve a most radical and essential change in the fundamental and underlying theory upon which rests both the Federal and State Governments. BUT SUCH IS NOT THE LAW.

"The United States statute in question provides as follows:

"That hereafter, in all casesof conviction of crime, the punishment of which provided of crime, the punishment of which provided by law is death, tried before any court of the United States, the final judgment of such court against the respondent shall, upon the application of the respondent, be re-examined, reversed or affirmed by the Supreme Court of the United States upon a writ of error under such rules and regulations as said court may prescribe. Every such writ of error shall be allowed as of right, etc."

"The correspondent has fallen into the mistake of supposing that by the words any courts of the United States" used in the above statute the framers of this statute mean any court in the United States, whereas any lawyer at all familiar with the United States Constitution and statutes and the form and theory of the Federal and State Governments will tell you that these words refer only to United States courts and have no application or reference whetever to State courts and cases tried therein.

or reference whatever to State courts and cases tried therein.
"'Under the United States Statute in ques-"Under the United States Statute in question, all capital cases tried in the United States Courts, can be taken by writ of error to the United Maties Supreme Court without reference to the character of the points involved in said cases, whereas capital cases tried in State Courts are controlled by other provisions of the United States Constitution and Statutes, and can be reviewed by the United States Supreme Court only where some federal question (i. e. some question arising under the constitution or laws of the United States) has been raised and decided therein. Such is the proper and necessary constructions and the constitution or laws of the United States in the proper and necessary constructions are the constitution or laws of the United States in the proper and necessary constructions. States) has been raised and decided therein. Such is the proper and necessary construction of the statute in question. I say "necessary" construction, because even should Congress intend and attempt to give the United States Supreme Court appellate jurisdiction in all capital cases tried in State courts, without reference to the character of the points involved therein, such attempt would prove abortive as being violative of the United States Constitution which itself lim its the jurisdiction of the United States Supreme Court in capital cases tried in State courts to such cases as involve Federal questions raised and decided therein. Covered With Scales. Awful Spectacle. Cured in Five Weeks by the Cuticura Remedies.

I am going to tell you of the extraordinary cure your CUTICURA REMEDIES performed on me. About the 1st of April last I noticed some red pimples like coming out all over my body, but thought nothing of coming out all over my body, but thought nothing of of it until some time later on, when it began to look like spots of mortar proteed on, and which came off in layers accompanied with liching. I would scratch every night until I want for mean while, were scratched off again. In vain did I consult all the doctors in the county, but without ald. After giving up all hopes of recevery, I happened to see an advertisement in the newspaper about your COTICURA REMEMDIES, and purchased them from my draggist, and obtained almost immediate relief. I began to notice that the scaly cruptions gradually dropped off and disappeared one by one, until I had been fully cured. My disease was excema and psorlasis. I know of a great many who have also taken the REMEDIES, and in four or five weeks was entirely cured. My disease was excema and psorlasis. I know of a great many who have taken the REMEDIES, and in was nawful speciacle to behold. Now my skin is as clear as a baby s.

TOPEKA CAPITALISTS INVEST $100,000 MORE IN SUBURBAN PROPERTY.

They, Like the Moneyed Men of Chicago Good Shepherd Sell a $61,000 Site to the Ludies of the Sacred Heart-An Olive Street Corner Sold for $28,000-Other vested in St. Louis property at a pace which bids fair to practically shut out local opera-tors unless they awaken to the widespread est that is being taken in this city all the country and enter into active competition with outy large sites for subdivision. Followng close upon the heels of other important ransactions, it was only yesterday that a syndicate of prominent Chicago gentlemen made $247.500 purchase at the east end of the Eads bridge, and to-day $100,000 in one lump from Topeka, Kan., has found its way into suburban property on the Mancheste road three miles west of the city limits. The remises at that point sold are known as the Day farm. It is a tract of 143 acres handomely improved for a country place, and as pretty a lying site as can be found around any city for suburban homes. A. K. Florida acquired this land May 16 last from John D'Day for $65,000 and he has now sold it for $100,000 to Maj. J. C. Hudson, editor and proletor of the Capital-Commonwealth of Tope-This is not the first Topeka money that been placed here lately, for within three mouths capitalists of that pushing Western town have invested upwards of $200,000 in acre pies on the natural bridge road in the vicinity of Goodfellow avenue. One of the parties intested there is James S. Collins, a wealthy banker of Topeks, and one of its most distinguished citizens. It was through this influence that Maj. Hudson was induced to come here and take a look at the prospect and convince himself of the existing elements of success in commerce and manufacture which are pushing St. Louis forward at such rapid strides that it bids fair to soon become the third city in point of population in the country, a position siready accorded it in point of wealth. Maj. Hudson being a man of keen preception was convinced at a glance and gave evidence of the force of his conviction in the purchase of Col. Florida's O'Day farm. His idea is to cut it up into one and two acre tracts where the better class of citizens will be anxious to urchase suburban home airs within easy rea, and quick con-

LADIES OF THE SACREL HEART BUY.

Another important transaction was the sale fit he Sisters of the Good Shepherd's proprity on Taylor avenue between Maryland and ierlin for $61,000. This site is in the heart of that promises to be one of the finest esidence sections, and for that asson there was a good deal of dissension among adjacent property owners then the sisters bought there about two and haif years ago. The plat they owned has a rontage of $25 feet on the north side of Maryland avenue and the same on the south line frontage of 625 feet on the north side of Maryland avenue and the same on the south line of Berlin avenue with an even depth of 4662 feet along the east side of Taylor avenue. They paid about $50,000 for the 1,250 feet frontage, but concluding to build their home elsewhere they accepted a liberal offer from Adolphus Busch and will erect their new buildings on the site of Bamberger's Grove, on the Gravois road. This matter having been determined the sisters of the Good Shepherd offered the property for sale, very much to the satisfaction of parties interested in that locality, and they tried hard to dispose of it, but no one could be found to pay their price, $61,000, until it developed that the Ladies of the Sacred Heart, established on Broadway, opposite French Market, wanted to buy a new place. Negotiations were opened with them and the sale has been effected, the intention of the purchasers being were opened with them and the sale has been effected, the intention of the purchasers being to erect their new convent building upon the site, which is admirably adapted to the purposes of any public institution on account of its elevated position in a good neighborhood on the line of one of the best cable roads in

The old Christian Church at the southwest corner of Olive and Seventeenth streets is evidently a good plece of selling property, for it has been sold again, this time at an advance of $5,000 to the grantor. The site fronts ob va depth of 109 and has the substantial old church building on it. A sale of it from the congregation, which is now building on Lindell avenue, mear Cabanne, was made for $18,000 in the winter of 1887 by Fisher & Co. to W. W. Culver. He offered it for sale. His brottler wanted to buy the place, and while he was bargaining for it W. W. Culver sold the premises for $28,000 to Joseph Vincens. The was much first proported. premises for $25,000 to Joseph Vincent. The brother, L. L. Culver, was much disappointed at this, but it was too late. He needed the place very much, and by giving Mr. Vincent a check for $1,000 he induced him to relinquish his claim and took the title himelf from his brother, W. W. Now he has sold the property for $25,000 to W. B. & D. F. Addington, who are going to make it a manufactory and place for dispensing cooling temperance betwerages. This transaction shows an advance of $10,000 since the property was deeded from the church people.

No county in the Union has a more orderly, hospitable and respectable population than Clay County, Mo., the home of the James boys. The census credits her with an increase of 26 per cent in population and 40 per cent in land valuation

SENATOR PLUMB declares that the Senate owes a duty to the American people as well as to the manufacturers. This selfevident proposition has been completely lost sight of by the high tariff advocates of the dominant party, but they cannot much longer keep it out of their view.

A PROTECTION organ observes that in his speech on the tariff Senator MORRILL said all that could be said from the Republican point of view. Quite likely, but his speech shows how little there is to say in defense of the McKinley scheme. People who have nothing to say do well to keep quiet.

THE World's Fair bill as finally passed by the Illinois Legislature provides that all submerged land reclaimed for the use of the fair shall be forever maintained as a public park. It will not be their fault if the real estate sharks of Chicago do not make the most of the World's Fair, but it is fortunate that a part of their expected plunder is thus rescued.

THE war in Central America seems to be dissipated in Anarchy. The shooting of Gen. RIVAS, who headed a revolt against Gen. EZETA's Government, may cow the malcontents into submission for a time, but as Ezera's authority was established by assassination and is sustained by force the advent of a stronger than he is only a question of time.

indisposition will be relieved by the conerence between the two now going on at Cape May. The two factions have got so far apart that neither can make concessions to the other without being made ridiculous.

WANING PARTISANSHIP.

While partisan activity was never greater in this country than now and while partisans are more zealous and unscrupulous in their activity than ever before, there can be no doubt that there is less partisan feeling than usual. At a time when the political organizations of the two parties have become mere machines to work out the political destinies of individuals and are worked with all the heat which personal ambition can supply, real party vitality is lacking. Party organisms quick with life have been replaced by party machines with an activity only mechanical, while the attitude of the people is not one of lively inerest, but of languid indifference.

There is nothing surprising in the situapolitical questions is the natural reaction applied in the Senate, it will be because of the wish of certain Senators to push through after the exhausting strife leading up to and through the civil war. The questions fought out or thought out during that Hoar a chance to pass his election bill, it is period are now settled beyond peradven- proposed to abolish a custom that has reture and the legal and constitutional forms now provided are known to be strong enough and flexible enough to bued with the temperament of the leonoclass serve for some time to come. But it does not follow that the decline n party vitality is accompanied by a coresponding decline in political vitality. When they are clarified by discussion, they will pass that is not, and cannot be, grown in this from the thinker to the practical country. The tin workers are taxed 120 per man. lowed by party action. The "kicker" not produced at all in this country even with has his uses, but in the larger sense he is not nearly so important as he thinks himself. In the long run the people will take of taxes on the necessaries of labor, instead care of themselves. When partisan zeal becomes a necessity, there will be plenty of it and to spare, but until it is a necessity, people will not overheat themselves by any unnecessary interest in the work- From the Philadelphia Record.

As some of these appropriations are made permanent, they take the control of the purse from the people's representatives and make the executive independent of future Congresses as to the indefinite expenditures they authorize. This is the most vicious kind of legislation, and the only motive for it is a fear of the effect of an enormous aggregate of appropriations upon the fall

THE law forbids any addition to the working force of a navy yard within sixty days preceding an election except in case of a public emergency. But two old hulks which are past mending have been sent to the disused navy-yard at Kittery, Me., and Secretary TRACY has proclaimed that a public emergency calls for the employment of a large force there. This public emergency is the re-election of Speaker REED in September, when he will have need for a great many imported voters.

SENATOR PLUMB asked a significant question during the tariff debate yesterday which home market enthusiasts would do well to ponder. Senatorial Iconoclasts.

It is greatly to be regretted that a continu-ance by the Senate of its traditional method of according to each of its members an unre tricted right to debate a question should depend upon the vote of one or two Republican Senators. We believe this tradition should be continued until either by the growth in size of the Senate or repeated instances of abuse this liberty made a change imperative. There is nothing surprising in the situa-tion. The decline of popular interest in can now be made. Congress in a district which normally gives a large Republican majority. As an old cana ringster he is not permitted by his honest stituents to enjoy this honor and dignity without paying handsomely for it. He is, therefore, naturally anxious that his methods should not be subjected to investigation by a Democratic House. If a Republican House can throw out a Democratic member with a majority of 5,000 or 10,000 votes a Democratic House might be tempted to profit by the example. Hence, the cause of Chairman Bel-United States into passing the force bill.

Disclaimers Are Useless.

From the New York WORLD. Senator Vest is entitled to the credit of exposing with the keenest ridicule the Republican abandonment of the poor old home market humbug. The protectionists have fooled the farmers to the top of their bent by toms administration bill, in the tariff bill promising them a home market if the simple agriculturists would only contribute to the building up of the manufacturers. But a hundred years have passed and the farmer is still sending abroad the surplus which remains after the home market has taken all it can consume, and now the manufacturers are urging the making of reciprocity treaties. Here is a real free-trade victory in protection ranks the meaning of which no disclaimers can change.

NOT A "SLUSH FUND."

WHAT THE EIGHTH DISTRICT CONGRES. SIONAL COMMITTEE WANTS WITH $3,000.

Include the Cost of the Primaries, so It Will Cost Much to Run is the Eighth-Kinsey's Letter-The "Ols Man's"

The situation in the Eighth Congressional District is becoming vexed and it is rapidly assuming the aspect of an open fight between candidate John J. O'Neil and Tom Barrett, Chairman of the Congressional Committee in that district, with side fights and opposing schemes to make matters interesting. The proposition so barely defeated in the committee to assess the candidates $3,000 before the primaries has brought the fight to a focus. Mr. O'Neil says it is a scheme to freeze him out. Mr. Barrett says it is Mr. O'Neil's own proposition and first became a candidate. The report has been broad for several days that O'Neil has raised $2,000 for campaign purposes, and it is fol lowed by the proposition made and almost carried in the committee that candidates for the congressional nomination should be assessed $3,000. The plan of campaign in the Eighth is peculiar, but it is strong for the committee and if it is carried out the commit-

The "precinct canvass," which is talked about is to be a rather expensive affair, if it is made. A man is to be employed in each pre-cinct to make a house to house canvass and record the name and address of each voter. Chairman Barrett, in a card lished below, figures out that this will cost about $2,400. The lists so obtained are to be compared with recorder Williams' poll books if he will consent, and if not they are to be taken to the polls and used there Each voter is to be checked off as he votes, and Chairman Barrett says that with these lists the workers will be able to tell where to send carriages as the day progresses, and what votes to lock up. The value of this information is placed at $2,400 and the balance of the $3,000 is to be used to purchase lead pencils and blank books and pay rent for the committee headquarters. Then there will have to be another assessment. The committee makes no provision out of this $3,000 for the cost of the primaries. This is simply for precinct organization. But judges and clerks and ballots have to be paid for and the candidates will have to come up again to pay for them. lished below, figures out that this will and clerks and bailots have to be paid for and the candidates will have to oome up again to pay for them.

Mr. O'Neil says: "I am in the fix of the tenant whose landlord came to him and said, 'John, I will have to raise your rent.' John replied, 'Well, I am glad somebody is going to do it, for I can't.'" There will be a good deal to be raised, too, by the time the committee has levied the assessments for precinct organization and for primaries, and all this, just when the present committee goes out and the new one comes in to take charge of the campaign. But this committee does not wish to be forgotten. It has even been suggested that as the Australian system is now in vogue and the candidates will have no legal expenses after the nomination, the Eighth District Committee wants to establish the precedent of of levying the assessment before the nomination, as it will be optional with a notlinee whether he puts up a cent or not. It is, therefore, advisable from the workers' point of view to get the assessment in while a candidate is in the hands of the committee instead of waiting until he is a nominee, but this system is not likely to meet with approval. There are few candidates who would obear their portion of a $3,000 assessment in addition to their share of the cost of the primaries, with all the inzard of the primaries, the convention, or that their names even will be heard in the convention halls.

A DARK HORSE.

There is talk of a dark horse in the Eighth There is talk of a dark horse in the Eighth, and it is not at all impossible to run one in. Many of the politicians now think that O' Malley has a good lead on O'Nell, but still O' Malley has a good lead on O'Nell, but still O' Malley is not strong enough to win. John I. Martin is spoken of as a dark horse with the support of the local administration, and Judge Lubke is also mentioned. If a third man gets into the convention and secures the nomination it will be through the votes of three wards which are likely to send delegates who are likely to be instructed—the Twenty-sixth, Sixteenth and Tweith. It is quite probable that independent delegates will be elected in these wards, and if they are they will be the power in the convention. The committee will meet on Thursday night and the convention will then be called for the early part of September.

IT IS NOT A "SLUSH FUND."
ST. LOUIS, Aug. 2, 1890.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

St. Louis, Aug. 2, 1890.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

In your paper of last evening appeared an article entitled "A Nervy Proceeding," in which the condition of affairs in the Democratic Congressional Committee of the Eighth District is, to say the least, unfairly stated. There is not in the committee "A Barrett faction," and the proposition to raise a fund of $3,000 before the convention is not "a species of black mail." In fairness I ask you to publish what I claim is the truth regarding the situation.

The matter of having a precinct organization was agitated as early as the beginning of last May and, at that time, I called the committee together and submitted the question to the fuil membership. The full committee referred the matter to the campaign committee and the campaign committee and the campaign committee made its report last Wednesday night, recommending the $3,000 assessment as sufficient to do the work.

There is in this $3,000 no shash fund for the committee; figures talk. There are sixty-six precincts in the district. It will require the employment of sixty-six men, one in each precinct, to make the necessary canvass. The usual pay of men for this work is $3 per day, and the number of days, twelve, the amount is $2,360. Out of the balance the books for the work must be purchased and headquarters for the committee rented until the campaign is over. There will be very little slush fund left after air these expenses have been paid.

Mr. O'Neill himself suggested the precinct organization, and people outside of the committee rented until the campaign is over. There will be very little slush fund left after air these expenses of organization.

I find in going through the district that Mr. O'Neill how, as he claims, "the choice of the working Democrats of the district that the assessment is a scheme to freeze him out comes with bad grace from Mr. O'Neill, who for six years has frozen out all opponents. Through his scheming no one else ever had a chance to become a candidate.

Mr. O'Neill seem

caudidate.

Mr. O'Neill seems to have an idea that he has a mortgare on the district, and his howi for fair play is a how! because he could not buildoze the committee. For the first time since O'Neill's first nomination there is to be real fair play. It will be a case of the Democracy choosing the best man, not the only man. Respectfully, TROS. E. BARRETT, Chairman of the Eighth District Congressional Committee.

Chauncey I. Filley was in Jefferson City yesterday and spent several hours in consulation with leading Cole County Republicans. He learned that many of the Republicans seen Jefferson. Filiey objected to this and told the Republican bosses of the State Capital to put up a candidate for every office and spare neither time nor effort to elect him. The Republicans who were nominated agreed with him and promised to place a nominee on the ticket. Filley's movements are beginning to attract much attention from all the politicians, particularly the leaders of the Silk Stocking element of the Republican ranks. The "ole man" has been traveling about the State and has made it a point to see many of his hardest working henchmen with a view it is claimed, and generally believed to urge them to assist in keeping matt G. Reynolds and other ambitious leaders in the rear. There is no doubt whatever, that the leader of the hoodium faction is frightened and is moving heaven and earth to keep his grip on the State organization. He has stated in a number of places throughout the State it is claimed that he had no hope whatever that the State Republicant ticket would be elected this fail, and that his object in campaigning was to keep the organization in line for 1892. Mr. Filley's real intention, however, politicians generally say, is to keep his grip on the committee and to antagonize the plans of the Silks. It is also said that he is working in the doubtful counties with a view to electing Republicans to the Legislature. Filley is a deep schemer in politics and it is now believed that he labors under the impression that he labors under the impression that he have and to the Republicans should unexpectedly carry a majority. Certain it is that he is now giving much attention to the doubtful Senatorial and Representative Districts in all parts of the State, and this fact has given out the general opinion that he is ambitious both to go to the Vertain the shaties has blick Stocking opponents.

A Political Demise.

Congressman Kinsey has written a letter Mr. T. M. Page of this city, in which he says: "You have noticed probably from the news papers that we all have our troubles, but not papers shat we all have our troubles, but not of the same kind. While I have been working to secure favorable tariff legislation for my district, also favorable legislation upon the silver question, which I believe has been settled in a manner eminent, y satisfactory to the entire country, Filley and his followers are very industriously looking siter my political scalp. I cannot afford to abandon any measures that are liable to come up here for consideration in order to go home and defend myself, and therefore will have to rely upon my friends to do it for me."

will have to rely upon my friends to do it for me."

One of the knowing ones, in speaking of this, said: "Kinsey is dead. His friends need not worry. The next Congress will find the original package question a right important issue and it will cut a figure in the next election. The St. Louis brewers are interested and they will favor the nomination of J. C. McGinniss. He has represented them for a long time, he is an able legislator, a man of experience and a man who will fight his way to the front in Congress in a very short time. Filley favors him and there is little doubt but that Filley and the brewers will nominate him."

A rather strange complication of poles and car tracks has come before the Street Department for settlement. The Mayor some time ago gave the Lindeil Railway Co. a permit to lay temporary tracks on Delmar avenue from Union avenue to King's highway. The street is unimproved, noither sidewalks nor gutters being marked out. The company laid their tracks on either side of the street and went shead running their cars.

Now the Beil Telephone Co. comes along and gets a permit for a pole line over the same street. Under the general ordinance governing the erection of poles they must be placed just inside the curb lines. When the line was run on Delmar avenue to determine the location of the poles it was found that the line came right in between the rails of the Lindeil Co.'s tracks. It is impossible to put the poles up right in the middle of the railroad track, and the telephone company will not put their poles any where else unless the railroad promises to pay the cost of moving them to their proper places when the sidewalk is established. The railroad company refuses to promise and refuses to move its tracks. How the matter will be settled is what the department is trying to decide.

The brotherhood holds a convention avery two years and the present officers are John A.Penton, Detroit, President; H. Claymier, Milwausee, Treasurer, and P. J. Monamara, Indianapolis; A. Walker, St. Paul, Minn.; Joseph Stewart, Philadelphia; Charles Thomas, Syracuse, N. I., and C. W. Emith, Buffalo, N. Y., Vice Presidents.

The brotherhood is not connected with the Iron Molders' Union of North America, its reasons for a distinct existence having bear very ably argued at the time its founders reasons for a distinct existence having been very ably argued at the time its founders seeded from the older body. It was felt that the interests of the machinery moliures were not well looked after, while the deliberations were in the main conducted by stove molders, and also that strikes ought to be avoided except as a desperate resort. The new order did not grow rapidly until the 1888 convention, which was held in Detroit. The convention was a great success and since then a large number of new brotherhoods have been organized, and the order which, at the opening of 1885, consisted of four brotherhoods and less than 200 members, has now fifty-seven branches and in the neighborhood of 3,000 members, and is still growing as rapidly as its executive officers have any desire to see it increase.

they have had no place. All of the engine houses have brick towers in which the men practice, but we had to devise something else here. The towar is very substantially built, and as the work was done by men in the fire department it cost but little. When we find the money all the other houses which have not brick towers will be given a tower built on this principle. "

The base of the tower is two sixteen-foot posts, which were sunk into the ground ten lest and stand against the rear wall of the building. The reminder of the tower is built of heavy lumber securely botted and braceds of that the airrongest wind could not tear of that the airrongest wind could not tear that dear on the alley side the tower is the polish he is instructed to reach. First, a man raises a ladder to a window, elimbs, up, straddles the sill, life his ladder to the next window and so preceeds to the polish he instructed to reach.

Two or three engines can be attached to the base and from the ground by means of connecting devices one man ean direct the nozzle. With two or three engines attached an enormous quantity of water could be raised to the top of the tower and poured out upon the burning building.

Still another device is to be added to the equipment of the hook and ladder companies, equipment of the hook and ladder companies, made necessary by the erection of very high buildings. It is the life-gan. It has been used in New York since 1884 and was used to great advantage in the recent Western Union building fire. There were a number of persons on the roof, out of the reach of the ladders. The life-gan was brought out; a cord was fired over the building; a rope attached to the cord was drawn up and fastened in the building; firemen went up the rope hand over hand and assisted the fire peaned persons down the pavement.

THE LIFE-GUN.

Is a cumbersome looking affair, like a weapon which might have been used a hundred years ago. It looks like an exaggerated carbine. The stock, barrel and lock are very heavy; the gun weight seighteen inches long and the stock somewhat shorter. The barrel is about three-quarters of an inch bore.

A large blank cartridge, center fire, is placed in the breech. Into the barrel is allowered a chain about a foot long, which flust fits into it. At the end of the chain is an inconsing, which fits into the cartridge. Attached to the end of the chain is a vistout cord about the size of a bluefish line. This cord is coiled in a receptacle made for that purpose.

When the gun is fired it is held nearly perpendicular. The weight of the chain and cord causes it to deflect. The cord is 300 feet long, and the slug can be shot to a height of 150 feet.

For several months the other residents of the house and neighbors living in the immediate vicinity have frequently heard the boy's screams intermingled with the resounding whacks of a broad strap, which the father often wielded with great vigor. Within the past week, however, a lady who refused to make known her name called at the Second Disrict Police Station and informed Capt. Husbler that Schnell had chained the boy in the garret and refused to release him even at the request of the neighbors. Special Officers Connors and Schroeder investigated the story and found that it was quite true. They also learned that three days after Schnell had chained his son to the floor, one Paul Keiler, who lives in the same house, had forced the father to give him the key to the garret and had released the prisoner. Schnell, when spoken to in regard to the matter, said that the boy was perfectly incorrigible; that he ran away from home and was gone for days; that he stole every cent of money he could get his hands on and that he paid not the slightest was an unusual and severe one, but insisted that it was the only thing He acknowledged that the punishment was an unusual and severe one, but insisted that it was the only thing left untried by which he could hope to break the boy's rebellious spirit. He said he had carried him his meals regularly and had not allowed him to suffer in any way. The chain was long enough to permis him to go the window, but was so fastened that he could not possibly release himself. Sohnell said he had been making arrangements for a week past to send the boy into the country. The warrant has not yet been served.

LANSING, Mich., Aug. 2 .- The Supreme Court here filed an opinion in the case of the State is concerned, is quite far-reaching. The State is concerned, is quite far-reaching. The respondent was convicted in the Bay County Circuit Court for selling liquors without paying the State tax under the law of 1837. He owned a scow, which he fitted up for a salco and anchored opposite the town of Bangor and made sales. This was not denied, but the defense was set up that not being engaged in the business in any city, village or township in the State he was not subject to the tax and upon this it came to the Supreme Court, where the judgment of the lower court is reversed and the respondent discharged. The Court held that the township boundary extended to the shore line only, and being within the limits of that township, of course was not in any other. The Court calls the attention of the Legislature to the necessity of a remedy for the defect.

shelr mode of living is conformed to that standard.

Australia is probably the hottest of the temperate lands is habited by while races, and it at the same time aimost the driest, excluding such absolute deserts as a large portion of the Paelfic coast of South America. From the time when its summer begins in September, until the coming of winter in July, not only does no rain fall, but during these nine months there is scarcely a cloud to shade the earth. The earth gives up all its moisture, almost the largest bodies of water dry up, the air is dry, and day by day the sun sends down ever fiercer beams. Even the thermometer blushes for shame at the temperature it is called upon to record. Adelaide, which is upon the south shore of the continent, finds 115 deg. no unusual temperature for Christmas and an additional 10 deg. Strangers to the climate are prostrated and yet retain animation enough to be filled with amagement that the natives seem so little effected by the bast. Not content with the scarcely calls for comment in the journals. Strangers to the climate are prostrated and yet retain animation enough to be filled with amagement that the natives seem so little affected by the heat. Not content with the appailing state of the thermometer is the shade they expose it to the sun and find to their dismay a temperature of anywhere from 150 der. to 100 Degrees.

The native colonicis go about their business unaffected by the heat and look not at all at the thermometer but most anxiously at the weather cocks. When the wind shows a disposition to get into the north they begin to tremble and by the time the vanes have mitted in Bointing to the invisible pole star Adelaide is like a city of the dead. Doors and windows in every house are tightly closed to keep out the heat borne by the wind from the northern desert, workmen leave their work and idlers vanish from the streats, even the oabs are driven home to stable. Then the wind begins, gentle at first as though trying to mask its real ferocity. Little gusts of breeze snap about the corners, little turbos of heat steal upon one as though innocent, yet every pulsation of heat, every whisper of the wind, brings lassitude with it. In about three hours the wind comes steadily from the furnace. The stranger who finds the seat intolerable in his closed from thinks to enjoy comfort by throwing open the winds who catch the breeze which he cam hear, whose force he can measure by the bending tree tops and the tossing boughs. The idea is seductive, the execution is destructive. Through the open window comes the wind blows from the north people can do nothing but watch the vanes and long for a change, their eyelids dry, their lips parched and pesing. The idea first with it comes the gritty sand of the desert; with it comes the wind on the sum and the same asylums.

Thus it and the vanes and long for a change, their eyelids dry, their lips parched and pesing. The idea is not the base of the barrens and a wind will kill even the most carefully irrigated garden, a week

Thus in such a city as Adelaide, in the barran interior tenfold worse. On the great sheep runs such a wind threatens ruin to many men of wealth. The sheep must have water or they die, and the only water available is that which has been saved from the winter rains in shallow excavations of the soil. The hot wind begins to blow and at its blast the water evaporates almost visibly. The panting sheep sweltering under fleeces hurry from all sides to stand in the rapidly vanishing water. So long as that water remains all may yet be well, but its evaporation apelis bankruptey, the sheep die, the owner is helpless before a ruin be cannot avert. How swift is the destruction of a hot north wind may be seen from this case: A run-owner numbered his flocks at 129,000, after a fortnight of hot wind there remained allive but 9,000. Artificial reservoires are of little effect in a country where even great rivers cease to in such a city as Adelaide, in the bar-

Regulation Suburban Mail Wagons. Letter-carriers who have routes in the outpossibly cover them on foot are allowed $250 a year by the governlowed $250 a year by the government for a horse and wagon. Previous to Postmaster Hartow's administration and indeed up to the present time those carriers have had, for the most part, exceedingly shabby-looking vehicles. Some had surreys, some buckboards, some gigs and some vehicles so distressingly out of all form of decent appearance as to escape classification under any name. Nothing on or in these vehicles suggested the object for which they were used.

Supt. Ed P. Fox of the West St. Louis Station prepared a plan for a regulation wagon in this service which has been adopted, and the horse route carriers are now being supplied with them. The wagon is quite a handsome affair, built of hickory throughout, and having many conveniences, beside the words U. S. mail painted on the dash and sides.

INVENTIONS OF THE CENTURY. The Principal Discoveries Made in the Scien tific Field.

From La Science en Famille. The following is a chronological resume of the principal discoveries and inventions of Electricity has been put under contribution by the inventive genius of our investigators At the moment that we were entering upon Dane, discovered magnetic electricity, the laws of which were soon determined by Ampere, and in the same year Arago discovered the principle of electric telegraphy, which was afterward improved by Morse, in 1833, and by Breguet, in 1845, etc. In 1843, Bussen, a German, invented a new electric battery, and two years afterward Elkampton and Ruelz discovered electro-metallurgy.

Along about 1832, Faraday discovered electrical induction, upon the principles of which Rhumkorff, the German, established the coll that bears his name.

In 1854, Bourseul discovered the principle of the telephone, which was improved by Reiss in 1860, and afterward by Bell, and especially, since 1876, by Edison, who also, at about the same epoch, improved the phonograph, the first idea of which belongs to Leon Scott, a Parisian proofreader, who suggested it in 1856.

Between 1841 and 1878 are embraced the discovery of and improvements in electric lighting, and along about 1881 the French engineer Depres conceived the idea of transmitting any sort of motive force to a distance by means of an electric wire.

While waiting, then, until the fairy electricity shall have dethroned steam, let us register what has been ace implished through the latter: The establishment of railways after the manufacture of powerful locomotives had been rendered possible (1832) by the invention of the tubular boiler by the French engineer, Sequin (1828), and then the establishment of steamers, to which, as long ago as 1838, was applied the screw invented by Dailery of Amiens in 1803.

While we are on the subject of the methods of locomotion, let us say that aerostation likewise has made great progress, although the last word will not have been said in regard to this until the question of the steering of balloons, which has taken a long step in advance through the experiments of Measrs. Krebs and Renard, has been absolutely solved.

Cork is claim to have been improved, and, at the cork is better the way been improved, and, at the cork is claim.

welcote the science of nisciculture, which Mr. Coste has succeeded in extending along our coasts.

A certain number of discoveries have been made in the line of chemistry: In 1811 Gay Lussae discovered lodine, in 1820 Balazd disk Wohler obtained aluminum, which, later on Sainte-Claire Deville succeeded in manufacturing in a purer state and at a less cost. Finally, we may mention Chevreul's and Bertite of Science of Boussingsuit and Fayen, who created organic chemistry, and those of Boussingsuit and Fayen, who created organic chemistry, and those of Boussingsuit and Fayen, who created organic chemistry, and those of Boussingsuit and Fayen, who created organic chemistry, and then the labors of Claude Bernard in physiology and those of Fasteur on formests, microbes and viruses.

Thus, while certain assent the state of the fact of the familiary and through science that afflict poor mankind, at least to isseen the effects of them, other men seek methods of destroying people in the most rapid manner when occasion occurs. Diplomats and politicians justify the researches of these men by constantly repeating that in time of peace it is necessary to prepare for war. Let us accept their dictum, and a fitted of the fiabors only under the protection of the fact of the fa

A CLEVER DOG.

Failing to Hold He Brings His Game to Camp.

Here is a good story told by the veteran Judge Porter in a letter to Dr. E. Sterling of Cleveland. Judge Porter writes from Toledo: In the early days about here the man that carried a shotgun was looked upon as rather a low-down pot-hunter. The first double-barreied shotgun I remember to have seen here was brought by a man by the name of Goodsell, in 1835. He brought with him a small black-and-tan foxhound he called Toot. In mentioning this I am reminded of a most singular incident in deer hunting. Goodsell, like most sportsumen, would have you believe that his gun and his dog were the best in the world of their kind. We occasionally took a turn in the woods together for deer, seldom missed to start a big buck within a mile of where I am now writing. Toot would give chase, and in twenty minutes' time would cease barking and come back to us. This had often occurred, when Goodsell would declare that the deer had taken to the water (Lake Erie) some six miles away. I did not believe a word of it. One morning, as usual, we started the big buck and Toot went off beliowing on the track. In less than twenty minutes he ceased his barking. "Taken to water again," said Goodsell, when all at once we heard a crashing in the underbuen, the next Toot have in sight, his tail between his legs, closely followed by the big buck, every hair on his neck and back in reverse order, plunging with his fore feet, and the dog dodging to avoid the sharp hoofs of the deer. When he was within twenty fest of us Goodsell biazed away with one barrel and made a hole clean through the deer as big as your foot. This was the only deer I ever knew him to shoot. He still extolled the virtues of Toot, declaring that it was not every dog that, when failling to hold his game at bay. was brought by a man by the name of Good-

Peavey of Minneapolis this morning was bidding 75 lies for Kansas No. 2 hard wheat. This was equal to 90 light in St. Louis.

A cable says the Indian wheat crop is 38,000,000 bu short of an average crop.

Odessa advices of July 15 are that prospects of crop were not so good as they were before the last ratinfall. Azimas were expected to turn out very good. Ghirkas had suffered most. Prospects of barley, rye and seeds were good. With his weather a goed harvest was generally expected. Everything denended upon the weather.

A report from France says: "There is no possible delusion now—the crop of wheat will show a material defect in quality and more of the cevaal year from August 1 to July 31 may be represented as follows:

HE CAPTURED THE BUNAWAYS. Farmer Barker Pursues the Man Who Carried Off His Daughter.

WHEELING, W. Va., Aug. 2 .- A case of elopement, pursuit of the couple by an irate father through a hot chase of twenty mlles, the ng to bay of the fugitives in a railroad depot and the recapture of the would-be lovers at the muzzle of shot guns, is reported from Brownstown, a station on the Chesapeake & Ohio Railroad.

Peter Kinder, a young farmer, fell in love with Jennie Barker, the 17-year-old daughter of a neighboring farmer. The couple were engaged to be married, and coming with tears to the father to get his consent, the old man forbade Kinder to come on his farm or speak to his daughter again. The young people bided their time and a few days ago when Barker left home on a visit, his daughter informed her lover of the fact. Kinder, taxing two friends with him and an extra saddle horse, dashed up to the Barker homestead and announced to Jennie that their opportunity had come. The girl was soon ready and in an hour they were on a gallop for Brownstown, the nearest railroad station. In some way Barker became informed of the elopement and with a friend he was soon in hot pursuit, both men being armed with double-barreled shot-guns. Kinder and his party reached Brownstown in safety, but were in despair when they found on reaching the depot that the train was an hour late. The couple went to the waiting-room while the two "best men" kept guard outside. Soon a cloud of dust announced the pursuit and Barker and his friend dashed up, dismounted and demanded his daughter. The friends of Kinder returned to the waiting-room, when the three young men drew their revolvers and defed the two outsiders. The shot guns were cocked and bloodshed seemed imminent, when the crowd present interfered and Mis Jennie was surrendered to her father. Kinder and his friends would not give up and obtaining rifies they speeded their horses to a point on Barker's route home and lay in wait for him, but he fortunately took another road and so escaped. Peter Kinder, a young farmer, fell in love

Andes H. Butler, a Murderer, Kills Himself

ALEXANDRIA, La., Aug. 2.-A lamp exploded in the cell of Murderer Andes H. Butler in the jail here early yesterday morning and before aid could be rendered the man's hands and face were badly burned. A doctor dressed Butler's injuries and a colored boy was left in his cell to attend him as he was suffering intense pain. After the Sheriff and physician left Butler told the boy to go out into the corridor and that he would call when he wanted him. The murderer then cut his throat on both sides with a small pocket kuife, the wound on the right side severing his jugular vein. When the Sheriff returned in the morning and found the colored boy waiting in the corridor he suspected something wrong. Going to Butler's cell he found the prisoner dead. The burned and bloody corpse presented a shocking appearance. The charred cell and bed were bespattered with blood. Butler killed his relative and friend B. M. Hayes, grandson of ex-Gov. Moore, January 19, the murder being one of unusual brutailty. He was tried for the crime, but the Jury disagreed, and he was to have been tried again in October. Popular sentiment was very strong against Butler and few regret the tragic coccurrence of yesterday morning. A will was found in his cell dated May 11, in which he leaves everything to his wife. His life was insured for $5,000 with a New York company. He leaves a family. tense pain. After the Sheriff and physician

Roberts, who is employed at the Manhattan competitions in England, swam 500 yards for $500 at Oyster Bay, L. I., yesterday afternoon. For a few yards after the start the men swam abreast of each other. Roberts gradually drew away, however, and was at one time in the lead by a small boat's length. The referee's boat kept in the course, but some of Roberts 'friends in a small boat kept shouting to him and he followed their craft, mistaking it for the referee's boat, and soon found himself going wrong. Johnson passed him and before Roberts could get back into the course there was a great gap between them which Johnson continued to widen. judges' stand and refused to serve thereafter.

In the last race of the day a disgraceful incident occurred. Coming down the home stretch to the finish the favorite, St. John, was in front, but was being rapidly overhanied by Brait, a rank outsider. Seeing that his horse was being beaten, Fitzpatrick, who had the mount on St. John, turned in his saddle and struck Brait in the face and about the head repeatedly with his whip. But for these foul methods Brait would have won. Yet the judges, under whose very eyes all this occurred, took no action. The one thing that Fitzpatrick merited was a prompt ruling off, and had the judges been allve to their duty he would surely have incurred this penalty for his despicable action.

The start is off Brenton's Reef Light Ship. The race will probably be between the Gossoon and the Minerva. With the present wind the distance ought to be covered in three hours or less.

The Volunteer won the Goelet Cup at New port yesterday, beating the Puritan, Katrina, Gossoon and others. At Monmouth Park last Tuesday the horse Little Jim, James Shields, his owner, and Camp, his jockey, were ruled off the turf because it was thought the horse was not ridden to win.

This is the epitome of a melodramatic story which has recently been re-vealed, and to the verification of which several Germans of local influence are addressing themselves in order to vindicate the

Some five years ago, as nearly as can be ascertained, a young German calling himself Leikauf came to this country, married and took up his residence in this city, where he worked as a brewer. One day the priest came out of the sick room and told Mrs. Leikauf that her husband's hour had almost come, and that hour had almost come, and that he could not die until he had revealed some dark oppressing secret. In the sick-room were Wesner and Holzer. When Mrs. Leikauf entered she put her head cless by her dying husband's mouth and he confessed to her that he had stabbed his step-brother in their native Bayarian town to get pessession of a house and some land, and that there was an innocatt man confined in the Amberg prison charged with the deed. Schnetz and Michael Haas agreed to share the expense of the necessary investigation. Some weeks ago they addressed a letter to the Burgomeister of Katzdorf, Bayaria, stating what was known of the case here and asking for information from the other side. In reply Mr. Haas received a letter from the Catholic priest of the village, to whom the Burgomeister had handed the letter. This letter, aside from saying that the case as described was not known there, said that they would have no standing in a German court of law with such affidavits as they had presented, and advised them to go to work systematically and through the German Consul at New York. At that time Leikaut's true name (West) was not known here, which may have accounted for the Katzdorf authorities not recognizing the case as presented in the letter. It has been known that Leikaut's most intimate friend in this country was one Henry Schmidt or Smith, who lives at Rochester. It is said to be known that Smith has letters from Leikaut's sister addressed to her brother by his true name.

HENEXT STEP.

It is surmised that Smith knows much more about the true story of Leikaut's crime, and a notarial agent acting for Messrs. Yackel, Schnetz and Haas spent yesterday locking into this phase of the case. Upon this gentleman's success will depend the next movement of the liberators. The liberators new have a fairly strong case, since Wesner has just made affidavit that he heard the confession of Leikaut', and says further that he is willing and prepared to go personally before a European court, if it be desired, and repeat his testimony. John Neuhierl, a Bavarian butcher of this city, who was also a friend of Leikaut's, says that over a year before Leikaut's fatal iliness the unhappy man, in a maudlin condition from drink, acknowledged that he had put his stephrother out of the way. Neuhierl is a native of Oberpaiz, which is not very far from Katzdorf. He says that the house Leikaut' was att

Death of a 12-Year-Old Boy Yesterday at New York.

NEW ORLEANS, Aug. 2.—Geo. Nenninger, 12 years old, died at St. Michael's Hospital last night in terrible agony from hydrophohia. Dr. Herman H. C. Herrold was summoned Meyer, Newark, to prescribe for young Nenninger, who was Meyer's stepson. Dr. Herrold saw immediately that the boy was suffering from hydrophobia. He had a high fever and at frequent intervals was selzed with spasms. The doctor spoke to the boy, but he was unable to reply. Water was offered him and he made as effort to drink, but was unable to swallow. The effort was followed by a violent spasm. Cake was offered to the boy and he ate it with apparent ease and relish. At times he frothed at the mouth and vomitted freely. The spasms then became more frequent and more violent. Dr. Herrold had the patent removed to St. Michael's Hospital, where he gave the case close attention. The spasms became so violent during the evening that it was found necessary to strap the boy to his cot. Hypodermic injections of morphine and injections of bromide and chloral were given to mitigate the boy's sufferings, but they did not have the slightest effect upon him. He was conscious all the while and frequently attempted to reply to questions put to him by the doctor. Failing, he would indicate that he understood what was said to him by nodding his head. Immediately thereafter he would be attacked by a convulsion, froth at the mouth and snap like a dog. The boy's suffering was intense, especially when water was offered him.
